Hard Yank Drive Balks Jap Battle Plans

NIPS UNABLE TO MAKE FULL USE OF LEYTE ARMY

Yamashita Forced To Send Piecemeal Forces Into Scattered Fights

DEFENSE IS DESPERATE

Bitter Struggle Forecast Before Island Is Under U. S. Control

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Nov. 14—The smashing American drive down the Ormoc corridor on Western Leyte which has pierced the enemy's assembly areas, has seriously interfered with Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's frantic attempts to hurl his five infantry divisions in a concentrated counter thrust against the advancing yanks, General MacArthur revealed today.

No mention was made of the total manpower being thrown against the Americans, who are irresistibly rolling on towards Ormoc, but the fighting strength of the five Jap divisions, identified as the first, 16th, 26th, 102nd and 30th, is believed to be at least 45,000 men and probably many more.

Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger, hard-bitten, German-born commander of the U. S. Sixth Army, who commands all Yank ground operations on Leyte, predicted a bitter struggle with the Japs before that island is completely under our control.

Japs Determined

"The enemy is determined to hold Leyte, and he will fight to the last man," he declared. Meanwhile, his dismounted cavalrymen of the first division and doughboys of the 24th, continue to make slow but steady progress down the narrow Ormoc corridor in the face of increasingly sharpened enemy resistance.

Consolidating their hard won positions on Mount Catubaran, the cavalrymen extended their left flank engulfing Hill 2926, eight miles south of Carigara, and now are approximately 12 miles north of Ormoc, funnel point of the Jap reinforcements who are swarming onto Leyte to bolster their embattled garrisons.

In addition, their patrols were fanning out to probe enemy strength towards the west coast of the corridor.

Tough Fighting

Infantrymen of the 24th division who have done a great deal of the toughest fighting against the Japs, were engaged in heavy combat with the enemy first and 26th divisions thrown against the 24th by Yamashita in an attempt to slow down their steam roller progress down the corridor.

Front Line Reports Indicate Hitler No Longer Directs Armies

LONDON, Nov. 14—Front line reports indicated strongly today that Hitler no longer is in direct command of the German armies.

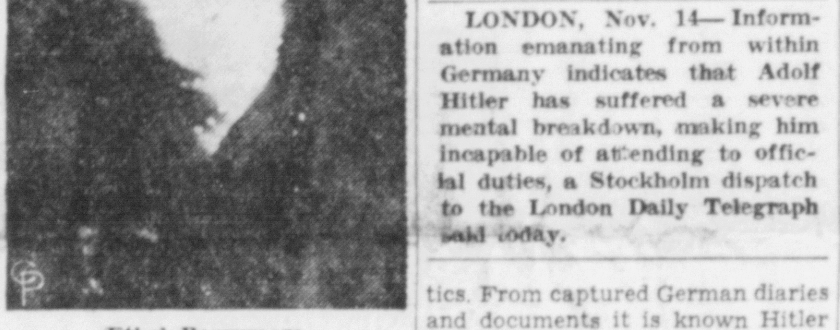

Two possible reasons are seen for the Reichsfuehrer's apparent retirement from his exalted post of military master mind of Nazidom. The first is that he may not have recovered sufficiently from injuries suffered in the July attempt on his life. Or, more probably, the disastrous results of the "little corporal's" military "intuition" have finally cost him the Napoleonic leadership he assumed following the German army's easy victories over weak and unprepared countries in 1940-41.

Whatever the actual reason, it is now believed that Hitler relinquished his command of the armies following Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's swift and sweeping victory in France.

Change In Tactics

For some weeks now it has been possible to discern a different hand in control of the battle along the western frontiers of Germany. During the Normandy campaign Hitler's intuition and stubbornness was evident in German battle tactics.

LONDON, Nov. 14—Information emanating from within Germany indicates that Adolf Hitler has suffered a severe mental breakdown, making him incapable of attending to official duties, a Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph said today.

Ethel Barrymore

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Actress Ethel Barrymore responded today to penicillin treatments in a New York hospital where she is suffering from influenza.

A bulletin issued by her physician said her temperature was 101, her pulse 110 and her respiration 22. There was no pulmonary complications and her chest congestion was improving.

The American stage's "first lady", who is 65, was taken to the hospital from the New York home of her actress daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, and the play "Embezzled Heaven" starring Miss Barrymore has been closed pending her recovery.

PAY ROLL TAX FREEZE OPPOSED

Senate Board, However, Agrees On Necessity For Law Changes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The social security board agreed today to seek revision of the old-age payroll tax system.

The promise was given by Chairman A. J. Altmeyer and other board members to Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) Mich., who is seeking cancellation of a scheduled one and a half billion dollar increase in the old-age payroll taxes on January 1.

While board members said they would oppose the Vandenberg "freeze" proposal, they agreed with him that the rule under which old-age payroll taxes are increased from time to time should be reconsidered by congress.

"We had a most friendly and helpful discussion and I think that the board will be prepared a little later to make some interesting proposals of its own," said Vandenberg.

The action followed a declaration by Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate finance committee, that the six billion dollar social security reserve in the treasury is—in practical effect—a myth.

"The pay-roll taxes go into the treasury, which transfers them into bonds," said George. "Nothing is being set aside for payment of old-age benefits except government I. O. U's."

"If it ever reaches a point where we would have to dip into the reserve to pay benefits, we would either have to levy new taxes or raise the old ones."

CONGRESS BACK AT WORK; FACES MAJOR ISSUES

Demands For Legislation Give Indications Of Turbulent Session

DEMOCRATS ENTHUSED

Official Program Of Party Awaits Conference With President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The 78th congress reconvenes today facing demands for legislative action which may make it a turbulent session both in the senate and house.

The official program of Democratic leaders remained to be framed, however, and they are expected to seek a conference with President Roosevelt before reaching their decision.

Jubilant Democrats were enthused over winning a thumping majority in the next house and retaining their strength in the senate.

Major problems which may be raised include:

1. Reenactment of the second war powers act, which gave Mr. Roosevelt vast authority in conducting the war.
2. Drive to cancel a scheduled automatic increase of one and a half billion dollars in social security pay-roll taxes on Jan. 1.
3. Effort to enact flood control and rivers and harbors programs totalling one and a half billion dollars with proposals to expand them.

Aid For War Workers

4. Move to enact Murray-Kilgore bill, defeated last Summer providing liberal unemployment benefits for war workers losing jobs in conversion.

5. Demands for immediate establishment of permanent fair employment practices committee.

6. Whether extension of statute of limitations for prosecution of anyone derelict in the Pearl Harbor tragedy shall be continued beyond Dec. 7.

Democratic leaders also faced appeals from members for action on many other measures, including a proposed constitutional amendment giving equal rights to women, a huge highway authorization bill, and a resolution calling for the "open door" in Palestine.

Sen. Pepper (D) Fla., chairman of a labor subcommittee, called hearings for Friday and Saturday on a proposal that a "floor" of 65 cents an hour shall be placed under wage orders of the War Labor Board. The move is described on Page Two.

FARM SUPPORT WILL CONTINUE THROUGH '45, '46

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The War Food Administration revealed today that continuation of the government's price support program for agricultural products will be required at least through 1945 and 1946.

The disclosure was made in a letter from acting WFA Administrator Ashley Sellers to House Speaker Rayburn in which he asked that legislation be enacted raising the borrowing power of the commodity credit corporation from its present ceiling of three billion dollars to five billion dollars.

Sellers pointed out that the CCC provided funds with which the WFA supported farm products as required by congress. Additional loaning power was needed, he stated, because of the uncertainty of war production and demand.

"While demand may continue at such a high level that support activities will be minimized," asserted Sellers, "farmers must produce enough to meet the maximum demand and, if this is done, there is always a probability that too much of some things will be produced."

Civilian Food Supply Not To Be Affected By Victory Over Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The agriculture department predicted today that the end of the European war will mean virtually no change in present civilian food supplies "since non-civilian requirements will continue to take a substantial proportion of the total food supplies throughout 1945."

In a survey of 1945 food prospects for civilians, the department said that supplies of some fruits, turkeys, and beef may be larger next year, but stocks of pork, potatoes, butter and probably chicken and some fresh vegetables may be smaller.

Despite increased world food needs, the survey added that the total civilian food supply in 1945 is expected to continue about the same as in 1944 when per capita civilian consumption reached about seven percent above the 1935-39 average.

The survey outlined the following 1945 civilian food prospects:

Civilians will get "much less" pork, but more beef. Per capita consumption of all meat will fall below the 140 to 145 pounds average for 1944, but will probably remain above the 126-pound level for 1935-39.

Egg consumption will remain at 1944's "unusually high" rate. Chicken supplies will drop slightly because of decreased production, but turkeys will increase.

Butter production will probably decline. Cheese and evaporated milk stocks will be below demands. Reduced hog slaughter will mean less lard. Margarine supplies may be slightly increased.

MASS RITES FOR UNIDENTIFIED BLAST VICTIMS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14—Cleveland's 61 unidentified victims of the East Ohio Gas Company disaster will be buried today at services in Highland Park cemetery.

The remains of the victims, sealed in individual caskets, will be carried from the county morgue in separate hearses to the circular burial plot. Services will be conducted by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen.

A crowd of some 5,000, including 600 relatives of the dead, were expected to attend the services.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche, Ohio's newly elected governor, and his cabinet also will be there.

Sixty-nine others of the 130 who perished in the explosion and fire that swept a half-mile area of Cleveland's East Side 25 days ago were buried as quickly as their identifications were established.

Many Nazis Still Cling To Optimism

Morale Is Sustained By Leader's Promises Of Secret Weapons

By RICHARD TREGASKIS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—One of the surprises in store for the stranger who might visit the Allied front lines in the Rhineland would be this:

That many of the German prisoners believe they are going to win the war.

Of course, the great majority of prisoners are morally beaten down and say they are resigned to the eventual defeat of Germany.

But there is a group who expect at least a favorable peace, and possibly victory.

And their reason for believing so is always the same: it's the new secret weapon which their military commanders, and the Nazi political bigwigs, have been promising them.

The German soldiers have been given no detailed information about the nature of these weapons nothing about the quantity in which they can be produced.

But the public pronouncements made by the Nazis, the "pep up" speeches made by the officers of the wehrmacht, hint mysteriously that the new weapons, V-2, V-3, and all the V's up as far as 12, will have a disturbing effect on us.

I have seen several field orders from the top German generals—including Field Marshal Model, urging the troops to fight hard against our superior forces because every moment of delay is valuable until the new secret weapons can be brought into effect.

The Model order of the day promised that if the German forces could hold us off during the winter, then the new, revolutionary weapon could be available.

The immediate importance of the whole secret weapon project is the fact that the promise of regeneration, however, vague, however insubstantial, is helping to sustain the morale of some of the Germans.

They are led to believe that when the secret weapons arrive, and bolster their strength so that they can drive us back, then they will be acclaimed as the saviors and heroes of Germany, who preserved the fatherland from what Model called "the Negro barbarians of Americans."

Of course, to us the really important thing about the Germans' secret weapons, the new developments of the German scientific brains which are supposed to win the war, is the question:

Just how effective, just how plentiful, can such weapons be?

As far as military effectiveness is concerned, then it's well known that the V-weapons have produced inferior results.

DEWEY SNYDER BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Dewey Snyder, Derby, was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond Monday when he was arraigned before Squire B. T. Hedges on charges of manslaughter.

Charges were filed by Sheriff Charles Radcliff against Snyder, who is accused of being the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured John Buzzard, 70, Columbus, early Saturday. He was arrested Saturday night. Officers said he did not stop at the scene of the accident.

Mr. Buzzard, a former resident of Derby and Mt. Sterling, died Monday morning in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus. He lay in the road about four hours before he was found by a bread truck driver, officers said.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Roxeline Buzzard; six sons, William, Edward, Floyd, Henry, John and Gerald Buzzard; three daughters, Mrs. Eva Roop, Mrs. Cora Puckett and Mrs. Rosella Beekman; 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements in charge of Leo F. Haag funeral home, Columbus, are incomplete.

THIRD ARMY IN THREE AND HALF MILES OF FORT

Patton Clamping Jaws Of Two Pronged Pincer On Heavily Defended City

STRONGHOLD CAPTURED

Vicious Bloody Battle Anticipated—Germans Lose Prize Battleship

BULLETIN

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, PARIS, Nov. 14—Another Fortress group at Yser, four miles south of Metz, was captured by the United States Third Army today.

By International News Service American Third Army troops surged forward to within three and a half miles of Metz today, overrunning four German forts on the immediate approaches and clamping the jaws of a two-pronged pincer against the heavily defended Moselle valley city.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's forces captured Fort Orny. His troops previously had toppled the important fortress at Verny, five miles from Metz, and two additional defensive bulwarks guarding approaches to the city. Fort Thionville, some 20 miles to the north, also was taken.

Seizure of the forts came amid indications that the Germans are withdrawing along several sectors of the Metz front.

The latest and most effective inroads against Metz were made when General Patton's ground troops, with the weather better than it has been since the offensive began six days ago, surged through the woods east of Fleury and smashed forward toward Metz from due south of the city.

Yanks Take Forts

Front-line dispatches indicated that the German forts fell into American hands with far less difficulty than was anticipated. It was believed that the Nazis purposely abandoned these strongpoints, apparently to consolidate their line farther eastward.

There was nothing to hint that the Nazis would pull their forces out of the heavily defended city of Metz, however. A vicious, bloody battle was anticipated before the vital communications center on the road to the Saar is liberated from enemy grasp.

Weather conditions hampering operations of Allied aircraft in recent days was held responsible for inability of front line troops to determine the extent of German withdrawal.

Allied headquarters revealed that General Patton's troops have taken 3,782 prisoners since the offensive began.

Drive From East

Another offensive was driving against the Germans from the East, concentrating for the time being against the Hungarian capital of Budapest where Soviet forces scored 12-mile gains and overran the railway town of Jaszapati in a smashing blow from due east of the city.

Farther south, Marshal Tito's Yugoslavian troops wrested the vital railway yards at Skopje (Continued on Page Two)

CHEMICAL PUT IN WATER MAY PRESERVE TEETH

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14—Flourine experiments now being conducted in Cedar Rapids, Mich., and Newburgh, N. Y., might lead to alleviation of 40 per cent of the nation's tooth decay, Dr. Homer C. Brown, past president of the American Dental association said today.

"Quantities of flourine were put in the drinking water of both towns, and reports are to be made over a ten-year-period on dental decay among school children," he asserted. "Flourine affects only developing teeth."

Researches conducted by the dental division of the U. S. Public Health Service proved that an excess of flourine in water, blackened or mottled teeth, but in quantities of one part to a million there was a 40 per cent decrease in decay.

"If experiments in Newburgh and Cedar Rapids prove successful adding flourine to drinking water will become a country-wide project, Brown declared.

CHARLES FINCH GAINS STAY IN HOOSIER COURT

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 14—The Indiana supreme court today had granted a stay of execution until Dec. 22 to Charles Finch, convicted a year ago of the murder in 1938 of Joseph Schoenfeld, Fayette county farmer.

The new stay was granted to permit Finch to appeal to the supreme court. A petition for rehearing of the case was denied previously by the Indiana court.

Finch, sought for five years after Schoenfeld's murder was arrested finally in Circleville, O. He was sentenced in the Fayette circuit court to die in the electric chair April 10 on a charge of first degree murder while robbing his 68-year-old employer.

and the western wall of the corridor, the American 96th Division overran "organized" enemy resistance and is driving westward toward Ormoc through the mountains.

Of the southern end of the piston being pushed north into the corridor, where the last announced action was the capture of Baybay, 26 miles south of Ormoc, no mention has been made for several days. This is the sector where the American Seventh Division has been operating.

Gen. MacArthur, describing the situation in the northern and central areas of the Leyte fighting front, declared that the triple-pronged drive by the first, 24th and 96th divisions in disrupting Yamashita's counter-offensive plans, had forced him to "premature and piecemeal commitments of his forces for defense of the main basins of the Yamashita line."

Artillery In Action

Long range heavy American artillery, in support of the foot-by-foot American advance, continued to "create havoc along the entire corridor," MacArthur's communique said. Meanwhile, Fifth Air Force planes smashed enemy bivouacs near Valencia, destroying numerous buildings and causing heavy troop casualties in strafing attacks.

Enemy planes carried out persistent and harassing attacks against our shipping and installations. Nine of the raiders were shot down.

Gen. Krueger paid high tribute to his men, and deplored the feeling of complacency which seems to be present in Americans, who feel that the Japs will be pushovers.

"It's unfortunate," he said, "Some people think that the Japs are running away without a fight. This is as far from reality as possible."

Krueger disclosed that well trained Jap troops are infiltrating sometimes as far as several miles in the rear of our lines. These small, deadly "suicide" parties are being mopped up by the men of our 24th division.

Doing Great Job

"America owes a deep debt to the fighting men for the Philippines," he declared. "They are fighting under harassed conditions, over high mountain ranges, through thick jungles and swamps.

"They are fighting under hellish conditions, but they have faith, tenacity and stamina, and will keep going—even if odds look impossible."

Meanwhile, competent and high-placed officers, looking behind the present bloody and prolonged struggle for Leyte, believe that the Japs will sue for an "unconditional peace" before the vast Allied war potential has an opportunity to assemble for the invasion of the enemy homeland itself.

Peace Move Foreseen

These men say that there is a definite chance for peace by "late Spring or early Summer," depending, of course, on the success of MacArthur's Philippine liberation drive.

They cite several reasons for this view: The attempt of the Jap fleet two weeks ago; pouring of airpower into the Philippines defense; heavy reinforcements of crack troops from Manchukuo and the Jap islands; their gamble on their merchant marine; and finally, the appointment of their best general, Yamashita, to the Leyte battle.

"They will fight as they never fought before," these observers told International News Service. "But they will lose the fight because of our superior power. When it is over, and we are ready to step off for Japan itself, they will ask for peace."

"They declared that because Japan is still controlled by the monied class—those who financed the war—they will seek to get out before their holdings are blasted into oblivion by our bombs."

"The yen will win out over the military," they prophesied.

Final clincher in their argument, however, is the appointment of Yamashita himself. The general who saved the military world by his surge down the "impregnable" Malayan peninsula against Singapore, is Japan's most successful field commander.

"As such a person," these observers ask, "would it not be logical for the enemy to place their best commander in the final, most critical spot for the last defensive empire leadership?"

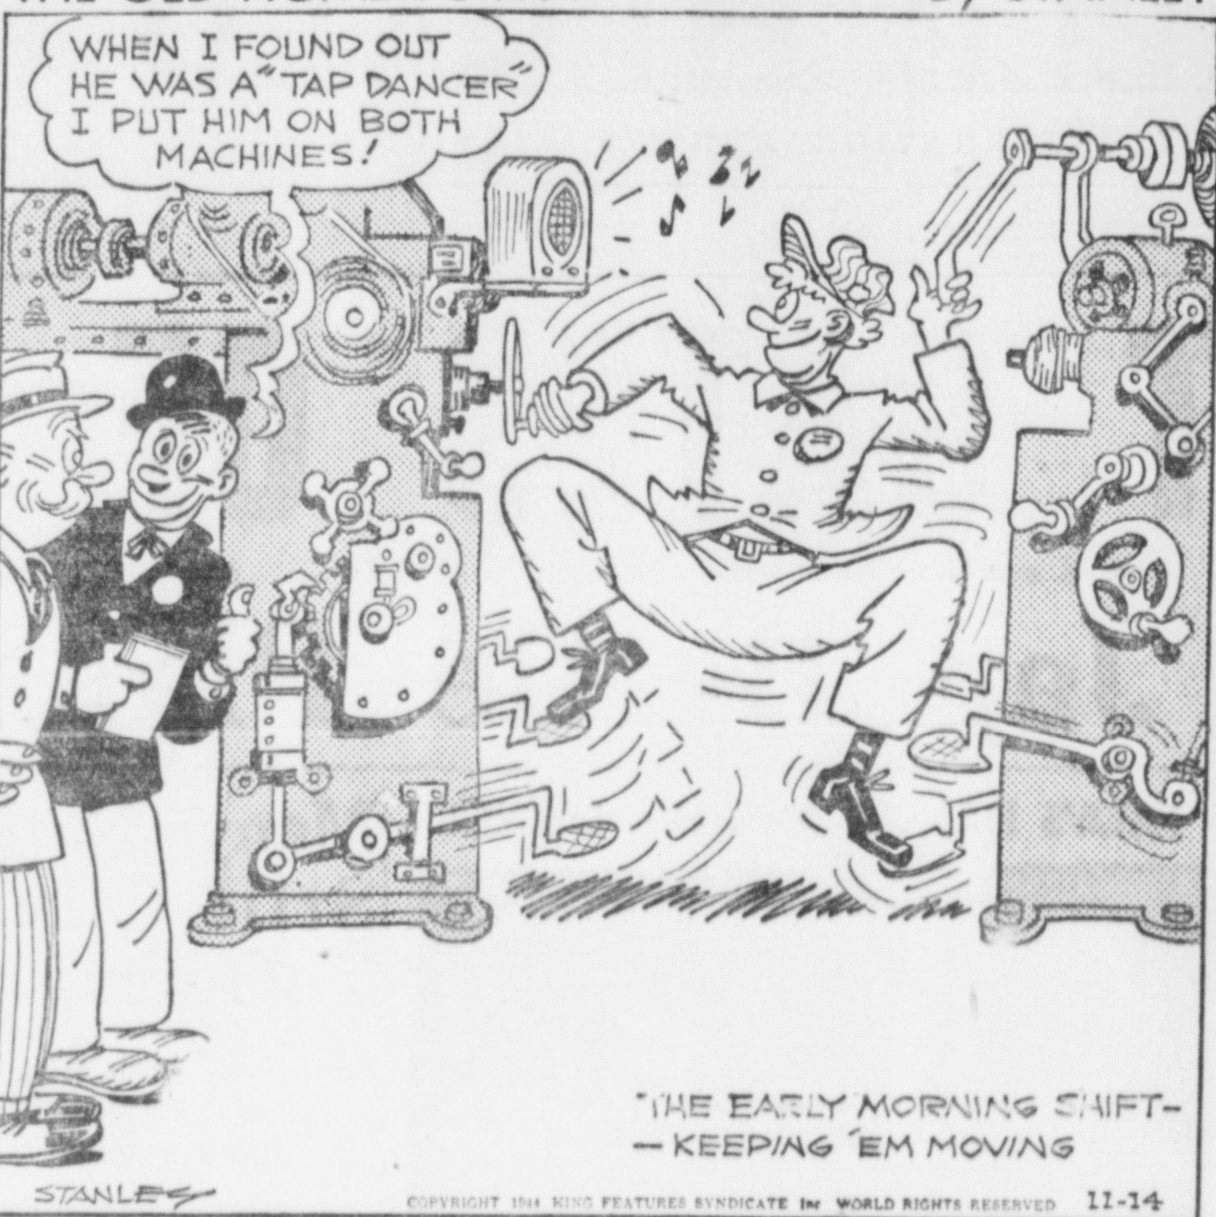

That final defense, these officers claim, has now begun in the Philippines.

The grant of the land of what is now Pennsylvania was made in settlement of a debt of 15,000 pounds which King Charles II and the government of Great Britain owed Admiral Penn.

from the Nazis, thereby cutting one of the enemy's principal escape gaps from Greece.

British Eighth Army forces brought still more pressure against the harassed Nazi war machine from Northern Italy. The Tommies swept on northward from Forli, hurling the Nazis backward over two miles of bitterly contested ground and seized the village of San Tomè. The British also pitched new bridgeheads across the Montone river, while Polish troops on their left flank captured the town of Bagnolo and seized important high ground atop Monte Casole. The American Fifth Army in Italy was engaged in extensive patrolling activity.

Japs Smashed

In the Philippines, General Douglas MacArthur's troops smashed into assembly areas of the Japanese force trapped in the Ormoc corridor on Leyte island. General MacArthur's audacious move prevented the enemy from launching a sweeping counter-attack even after the Nipponese forces were reinforced.

The Japanese imperial headquarters claimed another battleship—presumably an American man-of-war—was sunk by Nipponese suicide pilots who crashed their planes into the target. This latest battleship sinking, so said the Japs, occurred in waters somewhere "east of Luzon."

Tirpitz Sunk

British Lancaster bombers, using special six-ton armor-piercing earthquake bombs, sank Germany's 45,000-ton superbattleship Tirpitz, one of the mightiest warcraft in the world, in the Norwegian Tromsø Fjord Sunday morning, the Air Ministry announced.

The attack was opened by 29 of the four-motored Lancasters shortly before 10 a. m. Sunday. Six-ton bombs crashed down all around her. At 10:30 a. m. she was hit. Terrible explosions ripped her. At 10:45 she was afire.

The last planes which wheeled away saw the queen of the German Navy, Adolf Hitler's last effective battleship, heel over.

Reconnaissance photographs taken later showed 700 feet of the Tirpitz's keel and a little of her broad bottom showing in a pool of oil and wreckage.

The German DNB agency reported that a large portion of the vessel's crew was saved when British Lancaster bombers attacked the craft.

DNB said the Tirpitz was "put out of action" in shallow waters just off the Norwegian coast.

FUNERALS ARRANGED FOR TRAIN CRASH VICTIMS

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—Funeral arrangements were being made here today for two Columbus residents, who were killed Monday noon when a David Davies meat truck was struck by a B. & O. fast freight in Frankfurt.

Victims were Philip H. Cascioli, 23, recently discharged from the Navy who had been an employee of the company for four days, and Joseph H. Baumann, 36.

vegetable supplies is expected. Canned fruits will continue short, but increased supplies of bananas and other imported fruits might balance the production decline.

Fresh vegetable supplies may drop from 1944's "very high levels," but Victory Gardens and home canning are expected to fill the gap. Potatoes will be scarce early in 1945.

Current civilian supplies of canned vegetables are generally adequate, but non-civilian requirements in mid-1945 may cut these stocks before the Fall pack is harvested. Cereal products will remain adequate.

or borrow the money. It is a paper reserve. Theoretically it is a reserve; actually it is not."

If the increase of one percent each on pay-rolls of employer and employee is allowed to go into effect January 1, it will be actually a tax increase of one and a half billion dollars, George said.

Sen. Vandenberg is seeking "freezing" of taxes, he said, because the social security reserve is now above the amount fixed by congress.

He said he saw "some value" in the reserve, but agreed with George that social security taxes go into the treasury, are spent for general purposes, and that the reserve consists of bonds handed over to the social security board.

"The social security board gets 180 million dollars a year interest, but congress has to appropriate money for it," Vandenberg said. "We would be just as well off to appropriate money directly to pay for social security costs."

The Vandenberg "freeze" proposal, George said, cannot be passed on by the senate unless some revenue measure is enacted by the house, to which it can be attached as an amendment.

signed chiefly to aid twenty million white collar workers.

Cash For Jobless

Sen. Kilgore (D) W. Va., said a campaign will be made for his bill providing that the federal government shall guarantee unemployment benefits—probably $20 a week—to war workers losing jobs. The proposal also calls for payment of transportation of war workers to homes or a new job.

Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, is hopeful of obtaining passage of a resolution urging that Palestine be opened to further Jewish immigration.

First major senate business will be the flood control and rivers and harbors bills. Sen. Overton (D) La., chairman of a commerce subcommittee said he was anxious to obtain passage of both measures so a postwar program can be set up.

Sen. Aiken (R) Vt., gave notice he will offer an amendment authorizing the huge Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. Advocates of a Missouri valley TVA also will advance this proposal.

It appeared unlikely that any important question of international peace will arise during the session because the Dumbarton Oaks world peace program has not been completed.

PRODUCTION OF SUPERFORTRESS ENGINES HALTED

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 14—Production of Cyclone engines for B-29 Superfortresses was paralyzed today at five Wright Aeronautical Corporation plants by a strike of supervisory employees.

Spokesmen of the independent Wright supervisory association, claiming 8,000 supervisors had walked out, said flatly that the strike was called to force the Army to take over the five North Jersey plants affected.

The strikers refused to obey a War Labor Board order to return to their jobs. In its back-to-work order, the WLB notified the men no action would be taken during the strike on the union's demand for recognition.

A meeting of 1,200 strikers voted to stay out until the army takes over the plants or until the company grants demands for recognition of the union and other benefits.

fighting, they are leaving the direction of the campaign to skilled military hands.

Meanwhile British newspapers are beginning to hail Gen. Patton's offensive as the opening round of the final battle for Germany.

"It is well known that Gen. Patton asked for and has been given the assignment to drive to the heart of the Reich, and present operations presage no rest for the Germans during the Winter," the London Evening Star said.

ing bomb, has had a minimum of military effect, because of its lack of accuracy.

Occasionally a flying bomb has struck a military objective, but when that happens, it is an accident. Because they can't be aimed with anything like the precision of a shell or ordinary bomb, they have often landed far from their targets.

From a cold-blooded military point of view—however grievous the injury inflicted on the civilian population—the flying bomb has been a failure.

This correspondent was in London during the height of the buzz bomb season this year, and can vouch for the fact that, while many people were maimed and killed, the bombs have been of the slightest military effect.

I have also seen some of the new V-2's, the 12-ton rockets which climb to a height of 60 miles in the stratosphere, then come straight down, accelerating until they reach a speed faster than sound—something more than 750 miles an hour.

Flying Frankfurters

These great flying frankfurters, which look like fat telephone poles with stubbing wings, are truly something out of a Flash Gordon comic strip; they remind one of a pseudo-scientific movie, of the usual Frankenstein gadgets with flashing neon tubing.

But they have so far proved much more formidable in appearance than in effect.

The V-2 still is in the experimental stage, the effect of the explosions is variable, and the degree of inaccuracy is far greater than the V-1. These flying frankfurters, about 40 feet long and six or seven feet in diameter, can fly for hundreds of miles, but to achieve this they must be sent to a great height that they cannot be aimed very well.

The trajectory is too high; and of course, the farther they must fly, the larger percentage of their explosive content must be used for propelling charge, the smaller part used for destruction when the projectile lands.

In nearly every case the destructive effect of these new weapons, which are supposed to be more deadly than the V-1, has proved to be less than that of the first weapon of vengeance.

Like the other secret weapons so far produced by the Germans in this war—like the one-man submarine, the radio-controlled tank and bomb—the V-1 and V-2 have proved to be of more psychological than practical value.

But there is no denying that these first V-weapons, and the promise of others to come, have been a psychological stimulus to the German soldiers in the battle lines, and a buttress to German civilian morale.

The V-weapons must be taken into account, if only for their psychological effect on the German people, in any estimate of the duration of the war.

Amazing results shown in improving the Looks... boosting VITALITY!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impair the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength.

A person who is operating on only a 10 to 15% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 10 to 20% normal is severely handicapped. At such times Nature needs extra help to restore its balance and function properly. Undigested food places a tax on the system...insufficient blood strength is a detriment to good health.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need! SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat...to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

ROOSEVELT RESPONSIBILITY
THE President has been given a definite mandate to finish the war and write the peace. On that ground, and not on that of a confused domestic administration, he and his fellow-democrats were elected.
Much of the domestic looseness may be explained on the ground of the haste in which it was necessary to start many new procedures, brought about by war or emergency. It is fair to say that some of the mistaken courses have already been dropped, some of the loose ends tied up, some of the overtight reins relaxed. But there is still too much of this uncertainty and entanglement. The large minority vote for Dewey was plain speaking on the part of citizens who wanted more neatness and clearness in domestic procedures. It is up to President Roosevelt to move along this line as well as on the war fronts.

The responsibility of the President in regard to the war and the peace to come is now immeasurable. Great before the election, it is now greater. His previous elections were based on other ideas. This one, obviously, is based on that of finishing the job. And the job is one greater than that of any previous president. Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Wilson had their serious problems. But the present problem involves the relations of the United States with the whole world on a scale, and of an exigency, beyond anything existing in the nation's past.

The nation's hopes are fixed on him. The nation's prayers are with him. The individual citizen must take hold and help, not hinder. For this is a democracy, in which every citizen bears a share of rule and responsibility.

SOVIET SURGEONS
THE distrust of Russia encouraged by some people does not extend to our medical scientists. American doctors have organized the American-Soviet Medical Society, which publishes "The American Review of Soviet Medicine." This will make the latest Russian medical discoveries known to Americans.

Russian doctors are said to have done remarkable work in the care of wounds. Our surgeons will want to know all about this. Medicine is one subject which knows no national boundaries or differences of economic system.

WASHINGTON Report

Chinese Situation Growing No Better
Writer Convinced We Should Keep Out
By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON—"The thing about you isolationists that makes me maddest," muttered a pre-Pearl Harbor interventionist, "is that everything you prophesied is coming true. For example—just look at China! What a success we are over there!"
"Realizing as I do that 'isolationism' is being made into a synonym for—shall we say 'leper'?" I replied. "I thank you for those sweet words," I replied. "And—yes—do look at China. What a spectacle!"
China is indeed a spectacle. Overlords still exploiting the poor! Excessive wealth in the hands of a few! Double-crossing diplomacy! Chiang Kai-shek ordering us, his most useful ally, to recall General Stilwell, one of our greatest military men. And getting away with the order, too. It is just one of "them things," said the president, explaining the Chinese generalissimo's personal dislike of General Stilwell.
It certainly is one of "them things." And it makes me more certain than ever that soldiers of the United States, your sons and mine, have no business in that vast, strange country. Giving their lives to protect not the Chinese, but the Chiang dynasty.
Those rumors that come through about a certain tendency of the Chinese to "traffic with the enemy" do not surprise people who have lived in China. Certainly the Chinese are more fundamentally like the Japanese than they are like Americans. And what presumption on our part to think that we ever can understand the Chinese.
Four hundred million people! You can't imagine that many people. A nation that has been digging deeper and deeper into its own Oriental philosophy and ways of life centuries before Julius Caesar ever thought of dividing Gaul into three parts!
And we think we can rush in, armed with ammunition and food

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

POLITICS-WEARY NATION
WASHINGTON—If Vice President Thomas Marshall were alive today, he would reaffirm what he said in Woodrow Wilson's day—that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

Looking over the aftermaths of the late campaign, its rancor and its political wounds, this columnist suggests that what this country needs is a good Dolly Gann social war—something to take our minds off politics.

Now if Mrs. Henry Wallace could just be persuaded to get into a row with Mrs. Harry Truman as to who should sit where at dinner, we would all have something to talk about. If only Senator Truman could be persuaded to issue a statement that, as Vice-President-elect, he considers it the prerogative of his wife to enter the dining room ahead of Mrs. Henry Wallace! Then we could begin to forget our troubles.

Things weren't so tense in the Hoover Administration, and folks weren't thinking so hard about war and politics. But even so, Vice President Charlie Curtis patriotically came forward with an official announcement that his half-sister, Dolly Gann, was entitled to sit ahead of the wife of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth. And Mrs. Longworth patriotically did her bit by boiling over with resentment.

The country had a marvelous time and nobody worried about anything else for weeks.

HAIR-PULLING CONTEST
Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Wallace also are patriotic people, and they might give this idea serious consideration. They ought to consider seriously the fact that we have had too much rowing among quarrelsome old men. Governor Davey has emphasized it, the columnists have written about it. It's an old, old story. So what we really need is a good hair-pulling contest between two lovely ladies.

It is true that Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Truman are good friends. But they can put friendship in the background for the good of the country. It is true also that Vice President Wallace, despite what must have been bitter disappointment for him at Chicago, swallowed his personal feelings and went down the line for Roosevelt and Truman like the good sport and real gentleman that he is.

But despite that, we think the Truman and Wallace families might well put patriotism before personal affection, and do something for their country.

Some folk might argue that not many people are going to formal dinners during the war, and that Wallace was never a great diner-out anyway. However, this is different. Even the OPA would probably waive its rules and dispense a few extra points to hostesses who would lay their table for a good hot social war.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR NATION
Furthermore, it has never been decided yet where a Vice President and a Vice-President-elect should sit at dinner in relation to each other. Hitherto, one of them was usually out in the sticks and didn't come to Washington until Inauguration Day. They never came to grips at the dinner table. But now, we are faced with the fact that, in the Senate, Henry Wallace will sit on the dais and preside, while

DIET AND HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I HAVE just had the opportunity of examining a number of soldiers who have returned from overseas service. Some of them have been in the Near East, which includes Syria, Iran, Egypt, Turkey, Iraq, Arabia and Ethiopia. They have some peculiar diseases over there, at least peculiar to a doctor who has been practicing in the United States. But our medical officers assigned to duty in those regions have been instructed in Tropical Diseases and have made some very valuable investigations on their own.

A chronic condition which affects some of the men seems to be due to prolonged residence in this climate. It is partly the effect of heat and humidity, although other impalpable factors may also enter into the causation.
Blood Thinner
The old saying that "the blood gets thinned out in the tropics" is literally true. The red blood cell count which in our climate is normally around five million per cubic millimeter falls to three million. This is not due to an actual decrease of the red cells, but to an increase of the plasma or fluid content of the blood. In the effort to get rid of body heat, the superficial capillary vessels of the skin dilate more or less continuously and permanently and in order to fill this enormous capillary bed the body compensates by making more blood plasma. The blood pressure also falls permanently for the same reason.

There results a change in the blood and vessels of the brain which causes peculiar personality changes. The individuals become very irritable, and also surprisingly forgetful. There are stories of men starting out on errands to see somebody and forgetting who they were going to see and what they were going to see him about. It is a rule in the Near East that you must write everything down in a notebook if you are going to remember it for five minutes. They imagine insults and quarrel over the most trivial matters. Inability to concentrate on a mental problem is very marked.

Chances of Recovery
Fortunately the outlook for complete recovery for such cases is extremely good. A few weeks or months in a temperate climate works miracles in personality adjustment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. B. C.—What are the symptoms and cure of alcoholic neuritis?
Answer: The symptoms are pain and numbness in the advanced stage paralysis. Cure is by abstaining from alcoholic beverages and use of concentrated Vitamin B.

B. D.—Three months ago I had a blood test which showed 148 units of sugar. My doctor told me that 100 was normal and gave me insulin to take. Now after taking it my blood sugar is 84, but the doctor tells me to keep on with the insulin. If 100 is normal why do I have to keep on with insulin?
A.: The underlying cause of high blood sugar—diabetes—will keep on raising the blood sugar and this condition has to be reduced daily indefinitely. But I should think a diet would be advisable besides the insulin.

M. B.—Does an enlarged heart ever become normal in a person with rheumatic fever, but for the last three years hasn't been sick in bed. This person has not a murmur or leak in the heart.
Answer: The heart enlarges as a compensatory measure to overcome increased resistance or to adjust to a mechanical difficulty. Not only is it unlikely that any treatment will reduce the size of an enlarged heart, it is undesirable to do so. The enlarged heart is a life saver.

Looking Back in Pickaway County
FIVE YEARS AGO
The Circleville Public Library was not to receive an increase in its budget for 1944, but instead was forced to take a $500 cut.

The real estate tax rate for Circleville Corporation for 1939, or on taxes collected in 1940, was to be $15.40 per $1,000 in property valuation as compared with $14.60 of 1938.

Jack Clifton returned to Greenbriar Military School, Lewisburg, W. Va., after spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton, North Court street.

Miss Henrietta Stocklen and Miss Eleanor Anderson were driving to Kansas City, Mo., for several days' visit. They were to return in a new TWA Douglas Luxury Airliner, accompanied by Mark Stocklen, who was to come to Circleville for a short visit at his home.

AS FURTHER PROOF of our involved goings on among the Latins I report the following:
"The United States is a very young nation," said the Ecuadorean ambassador at a luncheon of the Woman's National Press club. "You do not yet understand the world, or its trade. The English and the Germans have been at the business a long, long time. You are beginning."

The ambassador was thus answering my question, "Why are the North Americans a failure in South America, when compared with the English and the Germans?"

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
Dinner for both of us was sent up on a tray; no one came but the cat again. Delphine meowed hoarsely and, when I let him in, he went to Craig's bed, jumped on the foot of it, purred loudly, and went to sleep, with his slitted grape-green eyes opening now and then to look at the door into the hall.
Alexia and Maud disappeared directly after dinner. Peter and Nicky went for a long night walk. Later, because the house was so still, I heard their return. Or rather, I heard Peter's return; Nicky apparently got tired and returned first. I saw him as he passed Craig's room, for the door was a little ajar, on his way apparently to Alexia's room, and a moment later I saw him return. He glanced in both times and smiled airily, looking like a young leopard on the prowl. It was much later when I heard Peter's return and by that time I had closed the bedroom door.
There was no chance to talk to Drue. Once or twice during the night I glanced into the hall. Mr. Wilkins or his double sat in a chair just outside her door.
The next morning the police were prowling through the grounds, and later Nugent questioned me about the affair in the meadow, the trooper having reported the shooting to him.
"Perhaps someone believed that you have seen more than you were willing, publicly, to admit. You gave me that impression, too."
"But I saw nothing! Besides, no one last night could have known I would be just there, above the meadow."
"Well, can you suggest another motive?"
I couldn't, of course, and Nugent went away, leaving me with mixed emotions.
Alexia telephoned that morning for a full morning outfit, and I believe Maud assisted the police in going through the papers in Conrad's desk and the safe.
It was that morning, too, that reporters arrived. Chiverty and Nicky saw them. Later one of the papers had a picture of Dr. Chiverty taken as he was stepping into his car in front of his own white-picketed gate.
There was a picture of Drue, too, her graduating picture which someone had discovered. She looked very lovely above the stern severity of the Bishop collar our nurses wear on state occasions. Some of the papers made much of her brief marriage to Craig.
None of the papers reached us until after the next morning's train, which was just as well.
Craig's condition was good, so far as the wound went; but there was a kind of nervous, fine-drawn look about his mouth and eyes.
The police did not question Drue that morning. She asked about Craig and some of the shadow in her eyes seemed to lessen when I told her he was better.
About one-thirty, District Attorney Soper came to tell Craig there was to be an inquest that afternoon and to ask him if he knew a Frederick Miller.
"Inquest!" cried Craig. "Look here, Miss Cable ought to have a lawyer's advice before..."
"It's only a formality," snapped Soper. "She's not to be asked to testify now. The doctor's the only necessary witness just now. And Nugent. What I'd like you to tell me now is, who is Frederick Miller? Your father has given him checks totaling fifteen thousand dollars in the last two years. You must know..."
"But I don't!"
"Never heard the name before?" The District Attorney's eyes were little and suspicious.
"Never! And I don't think my father knew anybody of that name!" Craig looked perplexed. "Did you ask Alexia—Mrs. Brent?"
"Certainly. She knew nothing of it either... Well, haven't you any idea who it was that struck you that night?" His eyes were on the bandage on Craig's temple.
"No."
"Are you sure it was anybody? You could have fallen."
"But I didn't. I was in the hall. Somebody hit me and dragged me into the linen room. So it must have been a man."
"Not at all. A woman could have done it. Good morning," said the D. A.
And as he left, Nicky entered. I remained, in spite of the look Nicky gave me which invited me to leave. He was limping a little.
"Hurt your foot, Nicky?" queried Craig and Nicky said, "Someone dropped a flashlight on it, in the ruckus the other night. Accidentally, I hope, and glanced at me and lowered his silky eyelashes so there was only a half-hidden but definitely malicious gleam back of them."
I looked blank, as if I'd never heard of a flashlight and Nicky blurted, "Craig, look here. Oughtn't we to do something?"
"Do something?"
"I mean—well, murder's murder. There's either a motive or it's a question of a—homocidal maniac. It's in the hands of the police," responded Craig.
"But, Craig," said Nicky, leaning forward suddenly, "do you know who did it?"
"No," declared Craig. And added bluntly, "Do you?"
"No," said Nicky slowly. "That is—of course the police think it was Drue."
"Thanks to you."
"I didn't tell them everything I could have told them," said Nicky in a curiously tentative way.
"What do you mean?"
"Oh, their conversation, for instance. Conrad's and Drue's, just before he died."
Craig's eyes narrowed. "What do you mean? I suppose you listened."
Nicky shrugged; it was again tentative, only half-assenting.
"Well," asked Craig, "what did you hear?"
If the library door had been closed, I didn't think he had heard anything, for it was extraordinary. I might not have been quite closed. Still, it might not have been quite closed. Nicky hesitated, then lifted his elegantly squared and tailored shoulders again. "Think it over, Craig," he advised.
"You didn't hear anything. And if you did, it's nothing to me."
"Drue is nothing to you?"
"You heard me."
Nicky's bland face changed a little; his cruel lower lip protruded. He got up. "I see it's no use to talk to you, Craig. Oh, by the way, your divorce is still in good standing, I presume?"
Craig's straight, dark eyebrows made a line across his face. "What do you mean?"
"Oh, nothing," replied Nicky airily. "Except Drue is in circulation again. Fretting her ever. I'd forgotten"—he stopped, laughed a little—"well, no—not quite forgotten. After all, she did leave you once and I daresay you remember why. So if she is absolutely free..."
Craig declared shortly, "Drue is perfectly free. As you know, Nicky. Now get out."
When he'd gone, Craig lay for a long time looking at nothing, with a very grim expression.
Late in the afternoon Alexia came. She looked very beautiful (not at all like a recently bereaved widow) in a handsome tea-gown dress, emerald green and trailing. It seemed to me that Craig's jaw set itself a little rigidly when he looked at her, but he promptly sent me away.
Drue was sitting at the writing table when I reached her room. Sir Francis lay like a little brown muff on the table beside her, his head on her arm.
"Sit down, Sarah. What happened? Did Dr. Chiverty drive you away again?"
"Alexia, this time," I said a little grimly.
"Oh, Alexia." Her eyelids went down and she patted the little dog's vigilant head. And said suddenly, completely without expression, "He's in love with her, you know. I suppose now—after a decent interval—they'll marry."
I repressed an evil impulse to make a caustic comment, and she went on, "I was wrong... I thought if I saw Craig again—but I was wrong."
"Nonsense!"
"No. It isn't nonsense. You see, I know. He's still in love with her, Sarah. Nicky says so. Besides I—know..." She took up a pen and traced a circle with it slowly. "I'd better tell you, Sarah. I think that's what started everything. Alexia and Craig, I mean. You see—Alexia was in the garden with Craig a few minutes before he was shot. Nicky told me. And I think—mindful of the trooper outside her door, she whispered—"I think! Conrad shot him."
"Shot Craig?"
"SB! He'll hear you."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DEFENSE DURING ATTACK
BOTH GENERALS and admirals of top ability appreciate the importance of defense during an attack. That is, while carrying on an offensive, they give a necessary amount of attention to protecting their forces against possible counter measures of the enemy. It is the same with an able declarer in contract bridge. While carrying forward his plan to make his own contract, he also considers the dangers that may lurk along the way, and executes his plan in such a way as to forestall those hazards.

West led the heart K to the A. South made one of those first-glance examinations of his situation. He saw that he might lose a trick in clubs if the finesse would not work, and so could not in that event afford any heart losers. Two of his small hearts could be parked on the dummy's diamond honors, but he had better ruff one of the hearts. This he decided to do at once, leading the heart 2 and playing the spade 5 from dummy. See what happened to that East over-ruffed with the spade 10, led a club which West ruffed, scored another trick by ruffing the returned heart with his spade Q and led another club to West to ruff. South was put down three "before he could say January."
Just a little more counting would have shown South that he could afford to try two top trumps before ruffing any hearts, which would leave the spade J in dummy for a single ruff, all that would be needed. If he had done that, he not only would have protected himself against the vital over-ruff which beat him so badly, but would have made an extra trick above his contract when the club finesse worked.
Here's one of the few times to say "always" in bridge—always take out trumps before trying ruffs, if you can afford to do so, thus forestalling over-ruffs.

Miss Lucile May And Verneal Thomas Wed

Quiet Service Is Conducted At Logan

Miss Lucile May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest May, 517 East Mound street, became the bride of Verneal Thomas, of the United States Coast Guard, Monday, November 13, in a quiet service in Logan. The Rev. A. N. Gruesser, former pastor of the First United Brethren church of Circleville, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 4:30 p. m. in the United Brethren parsonage at Logan.

Miss May chose a dress-maker suit of aqua with brown accessories for her wedding and complemented her outfit with a shoulder corsage of white pom-pom chrysanthemums.

Miss Betty Jane May, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a smart tailored suit of Glenarry plaid with black accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

The former Miss May was graduated from Circleville high school in 1936 and is also a graduate of Office Training School, Columbus. She has been bookkeeper at Bremer Greenhouses for the last six years.

Oriental Silhouette

The Persian turban is draped from heavy satin in three shades of blue, jewel-like in their effect.

STARK in its simplicity, but fashioned after one of the age's most fascinating silhouettes, this plain black crepe frock moves in drama, eminently femme fatale, being easy-to-wear for even difficult figures.

Draping through the side bodice seams gives a flattering softness; a circular tunic takes care of unwanted bumps or sets off reed slimmness. Wear long black suede gloves, as sketched, or shorties and much glistening bracelet treatment.

An applied necklace imitates diamonds and gives highlights to the sooty black ensemble.

Horses are staging a comeback. But not, means Jockey Johns, the ones he bets on.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, November 14 A PARTICULARLY active and exciting day, with matters stimulated to very high tempo, is read from the ruling astrological symbols. New and very important projects may be attacked with force, skill, ingenuity and determination, especially since they may be definitely designed to place the fortunes, finances, possessions and future solidarity and contentment on an established and enduring base. Work confidently, with decisiveness and all available resources, and with the ready support of well-organized plans and institutions or authorities to this end, but be sensible with expenditures, and physical outlay. Good fortune as well as a probability of a worthwhile gift or inheritance may be in sight.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of well-organized plans and propositions to work with enterprise, sagacity and determination toward making a sound, enduring and secure future, with solid comforts and contentment. Bold plans and purposes should be constructively engineered, with skill and ingenuity to attract the generous support of those in high places. These might also be disposed to such generosity as large gifts, bequests or other means of furthering worthy objectives. Be wise with expenditures or personal extravagances, also impetuous moves.

A child born on this day should possess many skills, practical talents and ideas for a sound and pleasant future, even against obstacles. His bravery and energy may attract gifts or capital from influential sources.

The Cave of the Mounds, in Wisconsin, was discovered in 1939, when quarrying operations exposed it.

When you use water softener for laundry, let the water stand in the tub for about 10 minutes after the softener is added. During this time the lime deposit will rise to the surface in the form of scum. It may be removed, leaving a clear, soft water for rinsing. It's extra work, but well worth it.

FARMERS BENEFIT by Home Bank Credit

As a farmer, you are by nature independent. You don't look to the horizon for help; you depend upon the soil underneath your feet, upon the tools at hand and the friends close by.

Think of this when you need a loan. You have the choice of dealing with a subsidized Federal agency, with strings reaching over the horizon all the way to Washington; or you can deal with your home bank which is a part of your own community.

May we make this suggestion: When you want to borrow, see this bank first. You will benefit, and so will the community.

TOUCHDOWN KID ADDS TO TOTAL

13 PREP TEAMS STILL UNBEATEN

Five Dropped From Perfect List As End Of Grid Season Nears

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14 — Five more Ohio high school football teams were stripped from the undefeated class today following a blistering week-end of competition highlighted by scintillating individual and team scoring performances.

Only 13 teams with unblemished records were left as Lakewood, Wellington, Columbus St. Charles, Dillonville and Pandora fell for the first time. And add Columbus West to the list of casualties. Previously unbeaten but tied in its opening game by Marion, West ventured out of the state and lost to Louisville, Ky., 27-7.

But the downfall of this star-studded line-up almost overshadowed the wholesale pointmaking performances of a Fremont Ross backfield ace and the Cleveland Cathedral Latin Lions. And a touchdown covering 105 yards added further brilliance to the power display.

Halfback John Siciliano made the 105-yard gallop as Youngstown Chaney blasted Ashtabula Harbor, 26-7. The sensational play was set up after Chaney stopped an Ashtabula fourth quarter drive inches short of the goal.

But Halfback Bob Demmel of Fremont Ross won the individual scoring crown far and away. He scored six touchdowns and five conversions as Ross cracked Fremont St. Joseph, 65-0. In the first three minutes of play Demmel racked two touchdowns and two conversions.

And Cleveland Cathedral Latin, the state's No. 1 team as determined by an International News Service poll among Ohio scribes, took down team scoring honors in roaring to a 104-6 victory over a feeble Cleveland Central aggregation. The Lions, unbeaten in eight games, scored in every period, counting 22 in the first, 13 in the second, 20 in the third and 49 in the fourth.

Athens wound up its second straight undefeated season in handing Logan an 18-6 whipping to retain possession of the South-eastern Ohio league championship. The victory was the 16th in a row for the A's.

Thus, only 15 teams were left with perfect records as the season rapidly approached a fadeout. Heading the list of major undefeated, untied outfits with eight victories apiece were Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Toledo Libbey, Columbus North, New Philadelphia and Cincinnati Purcell.

HUNTERS TAKE TO FIELD AT 11 FRIDAY MORNING

Rabbit, Pheasant Season Opens; Bag Limits, Other Data Given

Friday will be a holiday for hundreds of Circleville and Pickaway county hunters.

Eleven o'clock Friday morning will find every one who can possibly get away from his work in the fields ready to start the annual war on rabbits and cock pheasants.

With more ammunition available than during the past two seasons more hunters than ever are expected to participate in the opening day activities.

To legally participate a hunter (except a land owner, his tenant or members of their families hunting on their own premises) must have a hunting license and display an assigned number on his back. He is also duty bound to secure permission to hunt from the land owner, to abide by the hunting laws, to be careful of fire, to not hunt on Sunday, and, above all, to exercise every care in the use of fire arms.

Conversation Commissioner Don Waters states the outlook is for a fair season and an increased number of hunters. He asked hunters to remember modest game bags and protection for hen pheasants will help preserve good hunting conditions for returning service boys next season.

Game Protector Clarence Francis called attention Tuesday to a change in trapping laws. This year it is illegal to trap, as well as hunt, on Sundays. Trappers who usually run their traps on Sunday are warned they are liable to arrest.

Here are some notes on opening dates and bag limits:

Rabbit, Nov. 17 to Jan. 13, bag limit first day four, eight in possession after first day, which by the way does not open until 11:00 a. m.

Pheasant, same opening date as rabbit, but closing Dec. 2; two cocks first day, four in possession thereafter.

Hungarian Partridge, same dates as pheasant, but bag limit four, first day and thereafter, in possession at one time.

Grouse, Nov. 17 to Dec. 2, two first day, four in possession the limit thereafter.

Deer, Dec. 4 to 9, both dates inclusive; one buck, shotgun with buck shot only, no dogs. Permit issued by Division of Conservation required to enter open sections in Adams, Pike and Scioto counties only.

Fur Bearers: No bag limit. Skunk, Nov. 17 to Jan. 20; Opossum, same dates as skunk; Mink, Nov. 17 to Jan. 20, inland—Nov. 17-Mar. 1, Lake Erie District.

Raccoon: limit two in possession at any time in open season, Nov. 17-Jan. 20, to be taken from 6:00 p. m. to 6:00 a. m., Ohio time.

Opossum, Nov.-17 Jan. 20, no bag limit.

Gray Fox, no bag limit, no closed season.

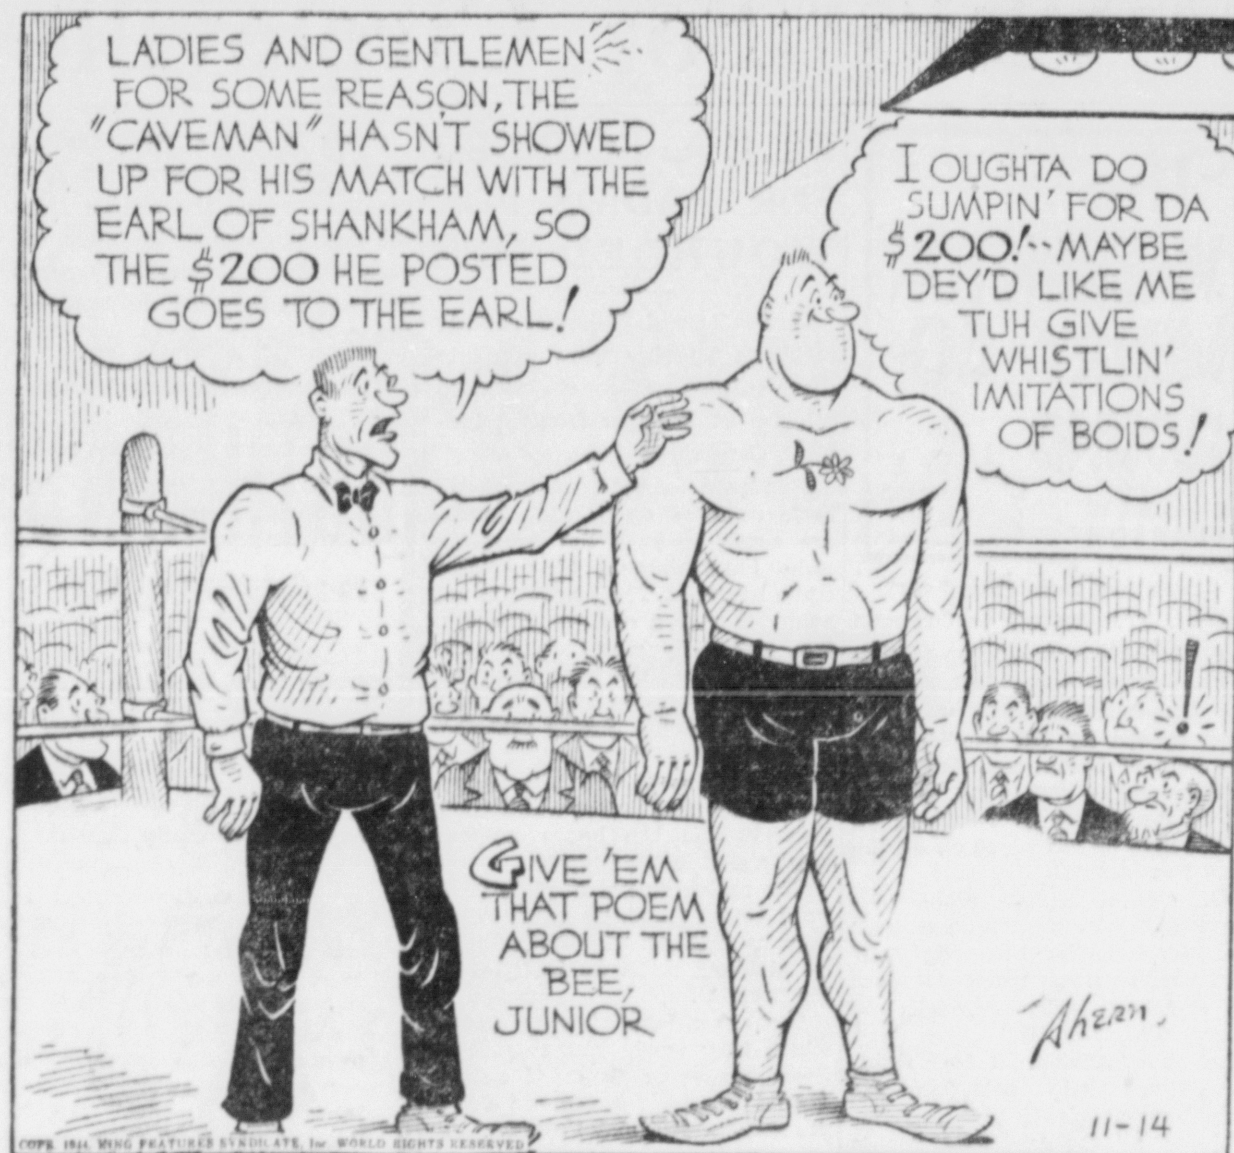

Red Fox, no bag limit; closed season only in the following counties: Noble, Brown, Highland, Adams, Scioto, Pike, Ross, Lawrence, Jackson, Vinton, Hocking, Athens, Meigs, Gallia, Nov. 17-Jan. 13. In the other counties the red fox may be taken and possessed throughout the year. Fox may be taken with gun or with gun and dog, or bow and arrow, or bow and arrow and dog or by trapping.

The waterfowl season closes Dec. 8.

Ralston Purina President Making First Visit To Circleville

INSPECTION OF AREA PROPERTY VISIT PURPOSE

Executive Sounds Praise Of Farmer As Greatest Undecorated Hero

The Circleville-Ralston-Purina company plant will be host Wednesday to one of the outstanding industrialists of the country, Donald Danforth, St. Louis, president of the company.

Mr. Danforth will be making his first trip to the Circleville plant. He will be accompanied here by B. L. Grant, in charge of the eastern plants of the company.

During the day Mr. Danforth will inspect checkerboard stores at Mt. Sterling, New Holland, Frankfort and Circleville. He will inspect the local plant, visit with the personnel and hold meetings with key employees at which plans for betterment of the plant will be reviewed.

In the evening a banquet will be held in St. Philip's parish house with about 130 employees present.

Praises Farmers

Commenting on the work being done by the American farmer, Mr. Danforth made this statement in a pre-visit communication to his local plant.

"The greatest undecorated hero in this war is the American farmer.

"We hear much about industry's vital part in producing planes, tanks, ships, guns and ammunition. But we hear too little of the amazing production job of American farmers who in the face of shortages of every description 'converted' almost overnight to produce the gigantic supplies of food without which industry's achievement and indeed today's military and naval successes would be impossible.

Record Production

"This year's food production totals are staggering. In spite of serious shortages of labor, equipment and feed, farmers will produce in 1944 fifty-four percent more eggs than were produced annually in the five year period beginning with 1934. They will market 49% more poultry meat, 81% more hogs, 14% more milk, 36% more beef. These are stupendous increases, certainly in the face of the great exodus of labor from farm to war plants. And still more remarkable when we consider the millions of farmers' sons and daughters who have left home chores to serve in one or another of Uncle Sam's uniforms.

"It is true that in his great war-time achievement the farmer has had the active support and cooperation of various agencies both of government and industry. But by and large it has been the practical commonsense and innate ingenuity of the American farmer which has met the war-time food emergency, and caused two eggs, two pounds of pork, two plums of milk and two bushels of grain to grow where only one grew before.

"One of the outstanding contributions to the farmers' problem on the part of industry was made by our own firm, Purina Mills. Through our sales and dealer organizations, 6,185 workers made 913,566 calls on farmers to assist in management practices aimed at increasing food production. These workers assisted the farmers of the United States in such matters as better breeding, better farms sanitation, better management and better feeding. The result was that many production leaks were eliminated. At least one or more faulty practices were uncovered in almost all farms contacted, and a study of the repeat calls indicated improvements and increased production in 41 percent of all farms called on."

WITH THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA—Four Circleville boys have just put four years of service and over 400 air raids behind them with 29 months being spent in the jungles of remote tropical islands.

Entering the Army with Circleville's old National Guard unit, Service Battery, Field Artillery, in October, 1940, the four men have remained together, three working as telephone linemen and the other in charge of the machine gun section to protect the linemen.

They are machine gun Corporal Virgil J. Devors and wire Corporals Roy R. Burchwell, Earl W. Leach, and Lloyd A. Smith. All fought in the New Georgia campaign and were with the first Army troops to land on Bougainville. Each wears the Asiatic-Pacific and American Defense service ribbons as well as the Good Conduct Medal.

Corporal Devors' mother lives in Ashville, Ohio. His brother was killed in action in Italy. Corporal Burchwell's family is now living in Columbus, Ohio, and his brother, Seaman First Class Floyd Burchwell is stationed in Iowa with the Navy.

Before entering service Corporal Leach was a printer for the Circle Press and lived with his aunt and uncle at 512 East Mound street. Corporal Smith was employed by Robert S. Elses, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Smith, live at 130 York street. His two brothers are also serving in the Pacific, one in the coast guard and the other in the submarine service. His sister, Mrs. John Kirkpatrick is a Lieutenant in the Women's Auxiliary Corps.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Senator Truman will be down on the Senate floor looking up at him.

That doesn't seem right. Here is the Vice-President-elect who has been chosen by the people—with the help of Hannegan, Kelly and Flynn—and he should not have to sit on the Senate floor looking up at the man he has edged out of the Vice Presidency.

Of course, Henry Wallace always gets tired presiding over the Senate after the first hour and usually turns the gavel over to somebody else, frequently to Harry Truman. But this isn't good showmanship. It isn't right. It doesn't help entertain the American people.

After all, the American people have something coming to them. They have really taken it on the chin. They have argued, yelled, listened to the radio, read the columnists, and finally voted in the toughest election since Abraham Lincoln. This campaign actually was much harder on them than on the candidates. The candidates only had to make the speeches. The American people had to listen.

So they deserve reward. And we think it is up to the Vice President and Vice-President-elect to oblige.

It used to be said that the Vice President was the diner-out of every Administration. But in these war days, when manpower is short and everyone is doubling up on work, the Vice President should take on the extra job of being the chief diverter of the nation.

P L E A SOUNDED FOR RADIOS FOR WOUNDED MEN

Circleville and Pickaway county residents Tuesday were asked to share surplus radios with wounded soldiers at Fletcher General Hospital, Cambridge, Ohio.

Hundreds of soldiers, most of them wounded on fighting fronts, are eager to hear the American radio entertainment they missed while overseas. The hospital is not equipped with a central radio system and while many wards have radios which have been donated, there are not enough to go around.

The Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with other chapters in the state, is trying to find used radios which could help lighten the hours soldiers must spend in the hospital.

The radios do not need to be in good condition. Some parts which may be missing and unobtainable by civilians could be installed at the hospital.

Local residents having radios which they would like to give to cheer up some wounded soldier should phone 807 or 809 and a Jaycee member will pick them up.
